Bethel tax list's top-10 shows effect of revaluation

For the first time in recent memory, The Bethel Inn has vaulted onto the list of the top-10 properties in town so far as assessed value. In fact, the owner of the Inn—Bethel Commerce Corp.—valued right-of-way number-two, with an assessed value of $2,310,500.

Town Clerk Morton Brown credited the rapid rise of the Inn's assessed value to last year's town-wide property revaluation. The effect of the revaluation was to dramatically increase the assessed values of village properties, he said.

Mr. Brown pointed out that the revaluation included the Inn and its related property and buildings, including the conference center and the golf course, but does not include any of the condominiums, which were developed by a separate corporate entity.

Number one on the top-10 list is still P.H. Chadbourn & Co., with a total valuation of $8,525,000. The listed valuations include real property as well as personal property, that is, machinery and equipment, furniture and fixtures.

The remainder of the top-10 are as follows:

3. Gould Academy, $1,685,000. (This is for faculty houses; most of the Gould

Stowell mill goes on auction block Tuesday

The land, buildings and machinery of Stowell Products Inc., of Bryant Pond, will be put up for auction Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. Woodstock officials hope the auction will be successful enough to allow them to recover at least part of the $94,000 in back taxes the company owes the town.

Woodstock Town Manager Vern Maxfield said he has been in contact with the town's lawyer and officials of the mill and Bank, who are forced on the mill in November. "I think that we'll be able to recover a good portion of the money," he said.

The town has placed liens on mill property to cover 1986 and 1987 taxes. In addition, 1988 taxes are still owed on the land and buildings. The liens and taxes must be paid before a buyer can obtain clear title to the property, as had town officials believe they have sufficient leverage to recapture much of the money the town is owed.

A spokeswoman for CSM Estate, which will handle the sale of the property, said there have been a number of inquiries about it. She said she did not know what plans the potential buyers might have for the land or building.

Following the closing of the mill, many people, including former mill workers, expressed fear that the lakefront property would be converted into condominiums. It now appears, however, that Woodstock's subdivision ordinances would preclude the possibility of such a conversion. There is little sentiment in town for allowing a waiver of the ordinances.

There have also been various rumors of other companies interested in buying the mill and restarting it as a woodworking operation. The Citizen has been unable to verify any of these rumors.

The property to be auctioned Tuesday includes eight parcels of land and buildings, woodworking equipment, machine shop equipment, material handling equipment, inventory and office equipment.

The property will be sold either as a single piece or in individual parcels. A

Area legislators expected Friday at Inn breakfast

The entire legislative delegation from central Oxford County is expected at this Friday's legislative breakfast and public forum. The event is sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and will be held at The Bethel Inn.

Expected to be on hand are state senators Ed Erwin and Don Twitchell, and state representatives Phyllis Erwin, Diane Hinckley, Ida Luther, Jeff Mills and Joe Walker.

The legislator will each give ten minutes to express his or her opinion on what the major issues are in the current session of the Legislature.

The public is expected to point out what issues are important locally, and ask the legislators to state their position on a number of topics.

According to Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Robin Zinckau, some issues sure to come up are: skyrocketing health care costs, workers comp costs, property tax relief, affordable housing, solid waste, labor shortages (and the attendant matters of adequate training for those entering the workforce and adequate child care for parents in—thinking of joining—the workforce).

The breakfast will run from 7:30 to 10:30. The cost will be $1 for coffee or $5 for a full breakfast (choice of pancakes and bacon or scrambled eggs and bacon). In order for The Inn to know how many to set up for, pre-registration is required. Call the Chamber, at 824-2282.

Academy property is not assessed for tax purposes.)

4. Bethel Furniture Stock, $1,415,000.
5. Newton and Robbins, $1,250,700.

6. Central Maine Power, $1,038,300.

(This is mainly for poles, transformers, etc.)

7. Joan Moorehead (Sudbury Village), $972,900.

8. Bethel Housing Associates (Bethel House), $942,300.

9. Portland Pipeline Co., $705,300. (This is mainly for the actual value of the pipe and fittings.)

10. Bethel Savings Bank, $702,600.

The Citizen will publish a complete listing of the new valuations throughout town as soon as a computer printout can be obtained.

School Board votes 8% limit on salary hikes for administrators

Following a three-hour closed door session Monday evening, the SAD #4 Board of Directors voted to reduce the salary increase cap for district administrators from 10 percent of the previous year's salary) to 8 percent.

The 10 percent cap had been adopted by the board on Nov. 14 to apply to all administrative salaries for the coming school year. Prior to the meeting, school board members had no such cut-off in mind. Administrative salaries were negotiated on a year-by-year, person-by-person basis and could go up by whatever amount the parties agreed to.

Beginning with next year's contracts, however, administrative salary increases will be determined by a formula (also approved by the board in November) based on that of Superintendent Dennis Graf, whose salary increase was set by the board last month. The salary evaluation formula for the superintendent yielded an increase of less than 8 percent, and the administrator receives that lower figure. If the formula yields an increase of more than 8 percent, the 8 percent can take effect.

The 8 percent cap will cover all administrative contracts for the coming school year, beginning with that of Superintendent Dennis Graf, whose salary increase was set by the board last month. The salary evaluation formula for the superintendent yielded an increase of greater than 8 percent, and the board approved a 10 percent increase in his salary.

The 10 percent increase will bring the superintendent's base salary to $19,300 for the coming school year, the first in a four-year contract also approved by the board last month.

The salary for the lower salary cap was made by Stan Howe, of Bethel, and seconded by Cheryl Eliot of Bethel. It passed narrowly, by a vote of 429 to 409.

(The voting results reflect the recently introduced weighted voting system whereby those directorates with a larger percentage of district voters get a voice proportional to those directors representing a smaller percentage of voters. The actual count was not recorded in the minutes.)

At last month's meeting, Dr. Howe went on record as opposing the 10 percent increase in the superintendent's salary. "It's taking us more and more into the realm of fiscal irresponsibility," he said at the time. "It's going to come back to haunt us down the road. ... It looks like

Students and teachers look at the life and work of Martin Luther King

Martin Luther King lectures, discussions, class presentations, book awards and posters will mark SAD #4 observances of the slain civil rights leader's birthday.

There will be no school for public school students on Monday, Martin Luther King Day, but during this week students and teachers will be taking part in a wide range of activities intended to help students understand the significance of Dr. King's achievements.

In the elementary schools students will participate in a variety of classroom activities focused on Dr. King. At the Woodstock School 3rd-graders will also do a presentation on Dr. King for pupils in lower grades.

At the Agnes Gray School, in West Paris, students will view a film on Dr. King and read about him in their classes.

At Telstar Regional High School there will be no school-wide program on Dr. King, but the man and his movement he studied are a standard part of the Social Studies and American History curricula.

"We dedicated him just as we would with any other important person in American history," said Middle School Principal Bruce Bell.

At Gould Academy, which does not cancel classes for the day, the morning assembly is traditionally devoted to Dr. King, and he is discussed again in individual classes.

The breakfast will run from 7:30 to 10:30. The cost will be $1 for coffee or $5 for a full breakfast (choice of pancakes and bacon or scrambled eggs and bacon). In order for The Inn to know how many to set up for, pre-registration is required. Call the Chamber, at 824-2282.

PUC denies request by CMP to import Hydro-Quebec power

After two years of debate, hearings, editorials, meetings and even demonstrations, a request by Central Maine Power Co. to import power from Hydro-Quebec was turned down Monday by the state Public Utilities Commission. In the split, 21-20, the majority was of the opinion that CMP had not shown that the importation of Canadian power would be a significant economic advantage to the state, and that it's not in the public interest to import power from Hydro-Quebec.

CMP was also supported by the PUC vote, as it was in the majority's opinion that the proposed hydroelectric project to import power from Newry would be a "go."

Opponents of the importation, led by Peter Chiavarolli, said the analysis was based on the fact that the PUC had recommended approval, as had the state public advocate.

The main group in opposition was a

Solid waste will drive up town budgets

Hundreds of solid waste items leave the horizon as officials in area towns begin raising the budgets they will submit to their town meetings.

Officials in Greenwood and Woodstock, which share the Greenstock transfer station, say that solid waste costs will probably represent the single largest increase in this year's budgets.

Neither town has begun the formal process of putting together a budget, but Greenwood officials say Marie Bartlett said solid waste disposal costs are without question headed upward.

The transfer station's contract with Consolidated Waste Services, in Norridgewock, has expired, Mrs. Bartlett said, but the towns are continuing to ship their solid waste to the facility, while paying the same tipping fee as they did under the old contract.

Just how much the situation will continue is uncertain, she said, adding that Consolidated Waste President Alva Achorn has failed to return numerous phone calls.

What is certain, she said, is that alternatives to the present arrangement—for example, a new contract with Norridgewock or with a different disposal facility—will undoubtedly cost the towns more money.

There will also be additional stump disposal costs this year, she said, including having the stump dump license as a fire transfer facility and paying to have the white goods there crushed.

Mrs. Bartlett said that at this preliminary stage in the building process she didn't foresee any significant increases in town expenses that would be reflected in this year's budget.

At Woodstock, however, Town Manager Vern Maxfield said that in addition to the inevitable increase in solid waste costs this year, he said, including having the stump dump license as a fire transfer facility and paying to have the white goods there crushed.

He will have to contend with the increased cost of school bus fuel, he said, adding that amount, he said, would go toward hot topping the road.

In West Paris, solid waste costs are expected to be less of a budget-buster, First Selectman Duane Abbott said.

The town is still searching for a new transfer station location, but over the past three years voters have banked more than $90,000 to cover the eventual cost of moving the new station and clearing the old site.

With that much money already set aside, the selectmen won't have to ask for as much this year, Mr. Abbott said.

He added, however, that West Paris is also shipping its waste to Norridgewock without a new contract and is vulnerable to increases in tipping fees.

Increases in other town accounts will probably be minor, he said, "nothing too solid waste expenses are sure to rise in Newry. First Selectman Steve Wright said, and the town also faces a substantial increase in its SAD #4 assessment.

The increase is based on the State Bureau of Taxation's analysis of real estate values in Newry, Mr. Wright explained. The figures used in the analysis are two years old and reflect the cost of real estate prices in Newry, shut up.

Sunday River Road mini-mall comes up for public hearing tonight

A public hearing on the proposed mini-mall on the Sunday River Road will be held tonight (Wednesday) before the Planning Board, at the town office, at 7 p.m.

The proposed development, to be called The Mill at Sunday River, is the project of a Vermont-based developer and envisions a delicatessen-style convenience store, with gasoline pumps, plus a couple of smaller stores.

Following the public hearing, the Planning Board will discuss the Site Plan Review application of the developer.

Also to be discussed under Site Plan Review will be the Crescent Park Day Care.

The board will also decide what changes to the Site Plan Review Ordinance it wishes to recommend to the Board of Selectmen. A public hearing on the proposed changes was held two weeks ago; there was little public input.

The proposed changes in the initial wording of a new Private Road Design and Construction Standards Ordinance to be recommended to the selectmen. After the selectmen pass on the planners' recommendations, the matter will go to a special town meeting.

Local naval officer on board U.S.S. Kennedy

Lt. Robert Everett, a 1967 graduate of Gould Academy, is a crew member on the U.S.S. John F. Kennedy, the American aircraft carrier that launched the two F-4 Tomcat fighters involved in last week's dogfight with Libyan MiGs.

According to Lt. Everett's father, James Everett Jr., of Mason Township, his son has served on the Kennedy for three years as a machinery repair officer.

The thought of his son sailing in dangerous waters doesn't worry the elder Mr. Everett. "I had a chance to take a trip on the ship—it's really quite an impressive operation," he said.

Lt. Everett's father, a Newry man who came through the ranks before receiving his commission. He also served four years in the U.S. Army, including a tour of duty in Vietnam.

Lt. Everett and his wife, Camilla, have a home in Virginia Beach, Va., near the Kennedy's home port of Norfolk. According to his father, however, the couple plan to return to the Bethel area in four or five years when Lt. Everett's military career is completed.

"He wants to build a home here," Mr. Everett said.

Economic Forum will see some interesting reverse role playing

The Economic Forum to be held at the Bethel Inn Conference Center on Thursday, Jan. 19, will feature a reverse role-playing skit to set the tone for serious discussion of common issues facing the communities in SAD #4. Bethel Selectwoman Pat Dowd will play the role of an out-of-state developer. Superintendent of Schools Lois Craig will assume the role of a selectman, as will Henry Bougeois of the Maine Development Foundation, and Roger Wheeler, a Newry developer.

According to Richard Wagner, consultant to the Maine Development Foundation from Central Maine Power Company, in other regional conferences, the reverse role-playing skit have produced a brief experimental contract to the more serious segments of the program, illustrating the need to develop cooperation and communication between sectors of a community in decision-making.

Other features of the forum, co-sponsored by SAD #4 Adult and Community Education and the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, will be a presentation by John Jaworski of the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments on local economic and demographic data relating to SAD #4 and a summary of the current business scene by Mark Sullivan, executive director of the Western Mountains Alliance, as well as table group

"we're feeding the fat." Following Monday evening's vote, Dr. Howe said he was surprised, pleased, by the outcome. "I would have liked to see it go lower, but I knew that was politically impossible."

He described the vote as more important than what it says about the board's leadership, compared to the estimated $6,000 to $7,000 it will save the district annually.

In other action Monday evening, the board voted to establish an ad hoc committee to study professional development time for teachers.

The committee's early-release policy for elementary school pupils had been intended to allow teachers more time for professional development time. The board discontinued that policy in December in the face of public pressure from parents and other taxpayers concerned about the lost instructional time.

The makeup of the proposed development committee was discussed at length. That proposal from district administration called for a majority of the committee to be made up of board members, teachers or administrators, with the rest of the seats filled by community members.

A number of board members expressed concern that the community at large would perceive such a committee as loaded in favor of supporters of the administration.

"If the community gets a look at how that's set up, they're going to say that's just hocus pocus," said Ray Harrington, of Greenwood.

The board eventually adopted a modified version of the administration's proposal, in which the seats on the committee are made up of community members. The committee will thus consist of two board members, one administrator, two teachers and five community members.

Director Margaret Hand, of Woodstock, and Director Betsy White, of Andover, will represent the school board on the committee.

In view of the district's polarization on the issue, Board Chairman Merton Brown said that the remaining positions—including teachers, community members and the administrator—will be selected by "luck of the draw."

He urged anyone who wished to be on the committee to submit his or her name to the superintendent's office. Committee members will be selected at random from among those volunteers.

During discussion of the committee make-up, Superintendent Craig pointed out that the committee's meetings will not open the public, and someone need not be a member to speak up.

In personnel actions Monday, the board approved Lew Bratt, Tolar High School basketball coach; Berries Codding, Woodstock Elementary School soccer coach for the fall; Terri Brady as a substitute teacher; and Sandra Gunther as a substitute bus driver.

The board also approved the sale of three used school buses to Scott Management Corporation, of Bethel. The successful bidder had offered $4,000 for the buses; the only other bidder had offered less than $600.

Board members Gail Sysko, of Newry, and Debra Poland, of Woodstock, did not attend Monday's meeting.

THE OXFORD COUNTY CITIZEN, BETHEL, MAINE

Open burning of waste at town dumps to cease

Effective Jan. 1, individuals and municipalities may no longer burn most types of solid waste at landfills in Maine.

The prohibition covers all materials other than brush and demolition debris. It is part of a legislated effort to ensure cleaner air for all Maine citizens, according to the Department of Environmental Protection.

Previously, the open burning of trash did not affect towns with populations of less than 1,000. A 1985 amendment to the state's open burning laws set Jan. 1, 1989 as the date by which these towns must have implemented alternative disposal plans.

A reminder of the deadline has been mailed to all affected municipalities by DEP's Bureau of Solid Waste Management. Towns that continue to dispose of solid waste through open burning will now be in violation of state law.

A pamphlet containing further information on the new rules and guidelines pertaining to open burning is available on request to local forest fire rangers and town firewands. Copies may also be requested by writing to the Department of Environmental Protection, Bureau of Air Quality Control, State House Station 17, Augusta, Maine 04333.

Newry selectmen meet

The Newry Board of Selectmen yesterday (Tuesday) received reports from the town's Village Conwright and Planning Board Chairman James Sysko.

Chief Conwright reported two new members joined the fire department—Conrad Parent and Ed Powers. The department recently responded to a chimney fire at the Parent home.

It was reported that several members of the Solid Waste Committee plan to attend the regional solid waste meeting in South Paris Thursday, Jan. 12.

The Planning Board's Jim Sysko reported that planning consultant Jim Haskell attended the recent board meeting to discuss zoning. He will submit an estimate of what it will cost the town to hire him to prepare a zoning plan. An article would then be put on the warrant for Town Meeting to raise funds to pay the consultant.

DUNHAM ON DEAN'S LIST

Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel) on Sunday was elected vice-chairman of the Maine Democratic Party. He was elected on the first ballot in a three-way race.

"I am pleased and honored to have been chosen by members of the Maine Democratic State Committee to serve as their vice-chair for the next two years," Mr. Mills said.

Keron Kerr, of South Portland, running unopposed, was elected chairman of the state party.

"The next few years will be important to the future of the Democratic Party in Maine," Mr. Mills noted. "While we have done well in the recent elections, notably in the Maine House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate, we must still look forward to trying to re-elect the Blaine House in 1990."

To help offset the impact of that increase on tax rates, town officials are looking to trim any fat from the local budget," Mr. Wight said, and they are examining surplus accounts to see if any excess funds can be plowed back into this year's budget.

The New Year has come in with snow flurries that made the roads slippery. Frank had George take him to Harrison, Saturday morning to go up to Maine with his children. There were three there. George spent the weekend here to take any night or weekend service calls that came in. Monday he had to go pick up Frank and went through Norway to Harrison as the snow squalls didn't want to go on backroads. The men were over an hour late as on the upper Maine turnpike I understand there were about 20 cars on the road. They had a long drive but said they still had a good time.

Wednesday made a quick trip to Gorham, N.H., and in afternoon was pleased to meet Jean Grover, Bertha, Danny, and Roberta Grover drop in. Thursday, I had first gotten back from Irma Thompson's memorial services when "Frankie" said for me to call the shop. Frank wanted me to take some things left after the Ripon service. No heat wave around at the moment, and don't look as though we would have to worry about it today at least. I'm sure it wouldn't seem as cold if it wasn't for the wind, but that really drives the cold in and makes one feel it. Hopefully it won't last too long, but I think we have been lucky to have such weather we have had so far. I am thankful however, for the colder some years so should be thankful that it hasn't been as bad up until now.

We keep entertained by the squirrels this year. Before they have come in the morning and had their fill and then left; but so far this year we are apt to see them at any time of day out back. They chase each other around and up and down trees again. I can't help but be entertained by their antics. We have more red squirrels this year than usual and it is fun to see the gray ones and the red ones chase one another. One would hardly believe the gray ones would run from the red ones but some do and sure looks funny. Lots of chichadees this year but so far not many others.

We are all looking forward to Sunday and Christmas plus the December 25th Grand's home next door. On Christmas day Lawrence and Grace go around to the children's homes to visit and then have the family at their home on a different day and this year it was New Year's Day so we celebrated both holidays at once. All five of their children were there and all of the grandchildren who had come as well as their spouses and children were there as well as there for lunch or dinner whichever you want to call it—and for the tree afterward. (I may have miscounted and think I did.)

West Bethel

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Dorothy Alice:
It seems like ages since we've seen you. How is that? Is that only a matter of weeks... or is it months? The holidays and their attendant highs and lows are history, and here we are in the jaws of a frigid January "cold snap" once again, at the mercy of its own highs and lows.

Yes, we're quite snug in our glassy home on the hill, thanks to Mr. Andersen's hi-tech windows, George Olsen's creative construction, and the Pink Panther's fuzzy dense wall stuffing. Outside our nest is yet another matter. The attention of everyone in West Bethel is focused on the thermometer (which, wind every high), and the frigid negative numbers displayed on thermometers. Ice fishing houses sit in driveways, not on lakes. We sit in our houses, our every move determined by predictions of the changes in the atmosphere and the ominous cold front racing in.

Last week we had a skiing family stay with us for a few days. They spent more time drinking hot chocolate in the sun room and frying garlic bread for sandwiches than they did slipping on the icy slopes. (After three days of blizzard-scented, bone-chilling weather, we were home-sick like an Italian restaurant!) And the other day, Richard (Vautour) and his friend Laura came up for a two-day ski holiday. They divided their time between trying to thaw the car's parts and mending the effect of the merciless wind on their hair and skin. They will be back later this month. Thanks to Charlie Merrill's low truck and warm garage, the car was ready in time for their return trip. And, of course, the icy spell was briefly interrupted by a heat wave as we watched the mercury soar to a tepid 12 above zero!

A lot of this cold talk has me musing about "change," that relentless factor of life and time that results in new status, new attitudes, new teeth. I've been trying to identify the effects to determine the difference between the younger, carefree, trusting, well-rounded soul in all of us, the ever-cautious, cautious, weather-sensitive older person we become. I've noted that while we aren't looking, our youth puts on an overcoat, and once it's on, these are the clues:

• You stop down to examine merchandise on a lower shelf and discover, after that last price comes down, that your left foot is asleep and your knees are locked for life.
• You set off for a day of hiking, a little climbing, and a lot of berry picking, only to find that coming down the mountain hurts more than going up!

Your idea of a fun evening includes sitting wrapped in your favorite afghan, watching by flames and reading mysteries.

• When you get together with friends to usher in the new year, you start yawning at 9 o'clock, and by 10:30 you're wishing that you had just the clocks advanced so you could skip the chimes!

As a young parent, you lived for the hour that the kids would be tucked in so that you could have the evening to yourself. Now you wait impatiently for them to go out so that you can tuck yourself into bed.

You eat what you eat and when you eat it. You are aware of the value of food as you are of the taste. Where once you drank coffee so that you could stay awake, now you drink milk so that you can sleep.

You rely on strategically placed thermometers to report on conditions inside and out. You study the weather as if your life depended on it. You travel with an eye to the conditions; if a storm is coming, you stay home.

Sometimes your fingers hurt for no apparent reason. You wake up with a stiff neck and back. You stretch those digits, you note that they are no longer all pointing in the same direction!

You remember when "regular" was the opposite of "king size"; it's the measurement of a biological function.

As a car owner, you want a future, "worthless" your hair to make it look as if the sun had done it; now you welcome the intervention of Mother Nature as she does it for you.

You once went to movie theaters and sat happily through two features. These days you sit alone in a VCR and make do with what you start the one film of the evening by 8 o'clock!

You wear long undies as a matter of choice and not appearance. You opt for comfort (elastic waists) over glamour.

You are more concerned with stretching your mind and body, you have now added stretch to your stockings and jeans. In addition to focus on support systems, you think about the value of support groups and support hose.

Once that overcoat is donned, you life becomes a matter of staying warm, of elasticities, undershirts, and control tops. You seek sensible food, wear sensible shoes, make sensible decisions.

Is there any payoff to this mellowing? Yes! Is life now boring and devoid of excitement? Not! The payoff lies in the accumulation of knowledge, experience, and lightweight. It will be as long as it doesn't come with orthopedic shoes!

internal control allows for new choices and new possibilities. And besides, the world here is unpredictable.

We hold hands now and then and ask for serenity in accepting things that we can't change, courage to change things that we can, and the wisdom to know the difference. It's that wisdom that makes us "wise." And it's that wisdom and lightness. It will be as long as it doesn't come with orthopedic shoes!

Yesterday, Dec. 28, fog and mist alternated with rain or snow. All day the chickadees came and went to the feeders, choosing pudding, suet or seeds. Watching them I realized I'm restricted to a small view. I know nothing whatever of a chickadee's world from a chickadee's viewpoint. I wander around nothing but trees and shrubs, passing on colors, drawing conclusions, perching myself upon what I know of the world. But I see only a bewildered and a hazy vision and mine only. So feed our little chickadee friend his pudding. A filler for hanging feeders: 1½ cup melted suet, 2 tbsp. peanut butter, 1 cup oatmeal, ½ cup cornmeal, ½ cup cereal crumbs, ½ cup flour, ¼ cup sugar or honey, 2 cups bird seed. Mix all ingredients thoroughly, put into feeders. Set in cool place to harden before hanging outdoors.

Today dawned in the most grandiose and spectacular manner. The entire eastern sky shimmered in orange and pink. Only a band of evergreens and a hill separated it from the flatness of the pond. A truly magnificent display. A pretty Maine day. May I always look up and hear and see the loveliness nearby, sunbursting over the hills? Sunshine both are needed. Mother Nature uses both to make her fairest blossoms glow.

Now come the silent days. Without are the white fields full of snowy silence; while within we find warmth, a good book, where march great thoughts to lead us far afield.

When winter winds rush around the house corners and rumble down the chimney how can we be more grateful than to have the feeling of sheltered security?

Yes, one of the brightest gems of our New England is our uncertainty of it. But there is one thing certain: there is going to be plenty of it. But we are nearer to spring than we were in September. Now isn't that a thought to remember!

On the Saturday before Christmas I had many callers: Stephen, Colista, Troy Cogswell, Karen Green, Cindy Gower, Glenn, Lillian, Nicholas, Melanie Strait all of Freeport; Lucy and Tommy Bragg West Summer; Betty and Marie Curtis, Tom and Linda.

Dorothy Curtis had Mildred and Donald Bowman for Christmas dinner.

At the home of Rena Curtis all but two of her children and their families were with her for dinner and a tree so there was a large gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Adams and two children were in Dover, N.H. with their parents for the weekend.

Katherine Hakala was at a gathering with her children and their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Tamminen had their children and families and Mrs. Evelyn Tamminen, of Yarmouth, at their home.

John and Dot Betts were in Conway with their daughter and family.

The carol singers who usually come to greet me were here again this year.

Eva Felton had her children at her home. It's the first time in 20 years all could fit together.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonas Holt's three children and families and I were at the farm on Sunday.

My apologies once again for having no column in the paper last week. I'm not sure just what is going on. As most of you know our car broke down, and since it did not seem feasible to repair it we bought a different one. We got it licensed and instead took it out on Friday for a spin. I am not sure if we will be able to get back to the mountains this weekend.

Now come the silent days. Without are the white fields full of snowy silence; while within we find warmth, a good book, where march great thoughts to lead us far afield.

When winter winds rush around the house corners and rumble down the chimney how can we be more grateful than to have the feeling of sheltered security?

It is a terribly difficult time to be without a car where my Dad just lost his wife and I need to be able to get to him if he needs me—and Marci's dog's puppies are getting bigger and bigger and I want to get to see them again before they are born. I am trying (hopefully) to find a shelter. But as Constance Brodhead said in her column, "So much for expectations." We expect cars to run but they don't always.

Christmas has come and gone and things have more or less settled back to normal, whatever that is. I know in my household I've never been able to figure it out. But the school buses are running, the colored lights have mostly disappeared, and most people have settled in. It's time to start thinking about how to stay warm and how to pay the heating and Christmas bills. I guess that is as near normal as one can get.

Lillian Herrick came and got me Monday evening and we went to a meeting of Tri-Town personnel to decide on whether or not to buy an ambulance the hospitals.

Leave the driving to us.

Over the holidays, Elizabeth Blake had a family Christmas tree and dinner at her home. Those present were David and Beverly Brown, Strong; Lendell and Tracey Allen, Newton; Todd Brown, Lewiston (N.Y.U.); Tammy Brown, Boston; North Haven; Eva Blake, Portland; Teresa Blake, Lexington; Lee, Terri, Beth, Diane and Carolyn Blake, Augusta; Robert, Cindy, Jamie and Haley Blake, Ernest and Alberta Angevine, and Albert Abbott of Bethel.

Lt. Robert Everett, the son of James Everett, was stationed on board the U.S.S. Kennedy, the carrier whose planes shot down two Libyan planes last week.

John and I attended a New Year's Eve service and open house at John and Alta Lidlam's in East Bethel New Year's Eve. Pastor Van Horn came and got us and Tim Martin brought us home. We had a time of prayer, fellowship and a communion service. Those attending from the Praise Assembly of God were Rev. Lyle Van Horn, Mark, Andrew and Daniel; Tim Martin; Dot and Roger Channing; Linda Hayes, Vickie James and Ruth; Tim and Linda Morrison; Moriah; Craig and Sandy Nash; John and Lorraine Mills and the host, John Lidlam and children, Julie, Jackie and Joel. Unfortunately several were unable to attend due to illness and Marilyn Van Horn and Alta Lidlam had to be at their work at Rumford Community Hospital. It was great, though. I welcome Dot Channing back into our midst. She had been ill several weeks with pneumonia, some of the time having to be hospitalized.

The Greenfield Fire Department met Tuesday at the fire station and discussed the Town Meeting articles—things they would like to put in the warrant.

They were also called out on Thursday on mutual aid to a house on the Gore Road which fortunately turned out to be more smoke than fire. Those are the best committee had found. The result was that the ambulance was approved and will be in the barn in about three weeks. I'm sure you will hear a lot more about it from Jane Chandler who is not only a journalist but the Tri-Town chief and so excited she's worse than a kid on Christmas morning. Jane, we know you, but it's a pleasure to have you and something to be excited about.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Merton Brown and Cathy Newell once again emerged victorious in the 10th annual "Se You Think You Know Bethel" contest that was the feature of the January monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society. Answering questions covering the full range of Bethel's past, challengers Robert Keeler and Virginia Kelly by a score of 100-90. Once again the judge for the contest was Margaret Joy Tibbets, chairman of the Society's board of trustees; the scorekeeper was life member Arlene D. Lowell; master of ceremonies was Society Director Stanley R. Howe.

During the business portion of the meeting, President Marvin Cuwinga announced that the next meeting would be Feb. 2 and would feature the Society's annual historical film festival. Society Curator of Collections Randall H. Bennett introduced two new displays at Society's meeting room. One consists of a generous sampling of reference and "how-to" books from the Society's collections. These volumes deal with such topics as antique collecting and care, local history writing and techniques of gathering oral histories. These books and many others are located in the Society's library and are available to interested persons during regular hours and by appointment. A second exhibit, installed into cases, includes gifts from Society members and friends. These gifts received during the fall of 1988, range from Gould Academy posters, local postcards, historic photographs, scrapbooks to maps. Mr. Bennett also announced that Susan Dorman, of Locke Mills, had presented the Society with three cassette tapes and transcripts of oral history interviews conducted part of a collection project. He also reported that Agnes Haines had contributed two indexes and presented them to the Society. Neither Carrie Wight's 1893 "History of Newry, Maine," nor Paul Wight's 1890 "Newry Profiles 1805-1890" have an index, so Mrs. Haines' work makes these two important town histories more accessible to researchers.

Refreshments and a social hour followed the program. Recent donations to the 1988 Bethel Historical Society Endowment Campaign came from contributions from Harold and Eunice Pugh, Hanover, and Clark and Ned Bartlett, Bethel, in memory of Dorothy Graves.

Benefits going up for 11% of food stamp users

Maine Human Services Bureau Director, Sabra Burdick, said last week about 11 percent of those on food stamp recipients will get an increase in their Social Security or Supplemental Security benefits in January. But they can expect a slight reduction in stamp allotments. The cuts will average $1 reduction in food stamps for every $3 increase in benefits that they receive.

An October increase in food stamp and the January Social Security adjustment are tied to cost-of-living provisions, which are part of the Federal Food Stamp and Social Security programs, Ms. Burdick said.

Approximately 15,000 of Maine's 83,000 food stamp recipients also get Social Security or Supplemental Security benefits, and, of this number, 10,000 recipients will be affected.

1988 has come and gone. Now let us turn to 1989 and see if we can improve the conditions in our country and do away with the root of all evils—drugs and alcohol. Just see what they are doing to you. Think it over.

Mrs. Esther Davis and Olive Davis were at Bridgton Saturday to see Mrs. Sylvia Adams who fell on the ice at the shoe shop where she works and has broken her right arm near her shoulder in three places. She was in quite a bit of pain.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway, Saturday. They have an apartment at Russelshain, Germany. David is in the service there. He and his son are in the process of learning German.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Clements, David, Eric, John, Robbie and Linda Louie went to Enfield for a get-together of the Clements families. They visited Nicholas' brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Clements, who runs a restaurant named, "Montague Restaurant." They all got together there for dinner and for a general good time the day after Christmas. Gifts were had, games played, etc.

David Clements left Jan. 2 for Newark, Del., where he is attending college, after spending vacation with his parents.

Vacation is over for the schools and the children are back for the next semester.

NOTES FROM
Telstar Guidance

With just five more school days remaining in the term, high school students are busy preparing for mid-year exams and looking forward to a change in schedule, new teachers and course offerings during the second semester. This is a busy time for Guidance. By the end of the semester, on Jan. 20, Bethel High will have seen an estimated 92% of students for course changes. Students can choose from more than 50 nine- and 18-week elective offerings. Concurrently, Mr. Hart has been meeting with seniors in groups to insure they are meeting their graduation requirements and monitoring those who seem to be having difficulty.

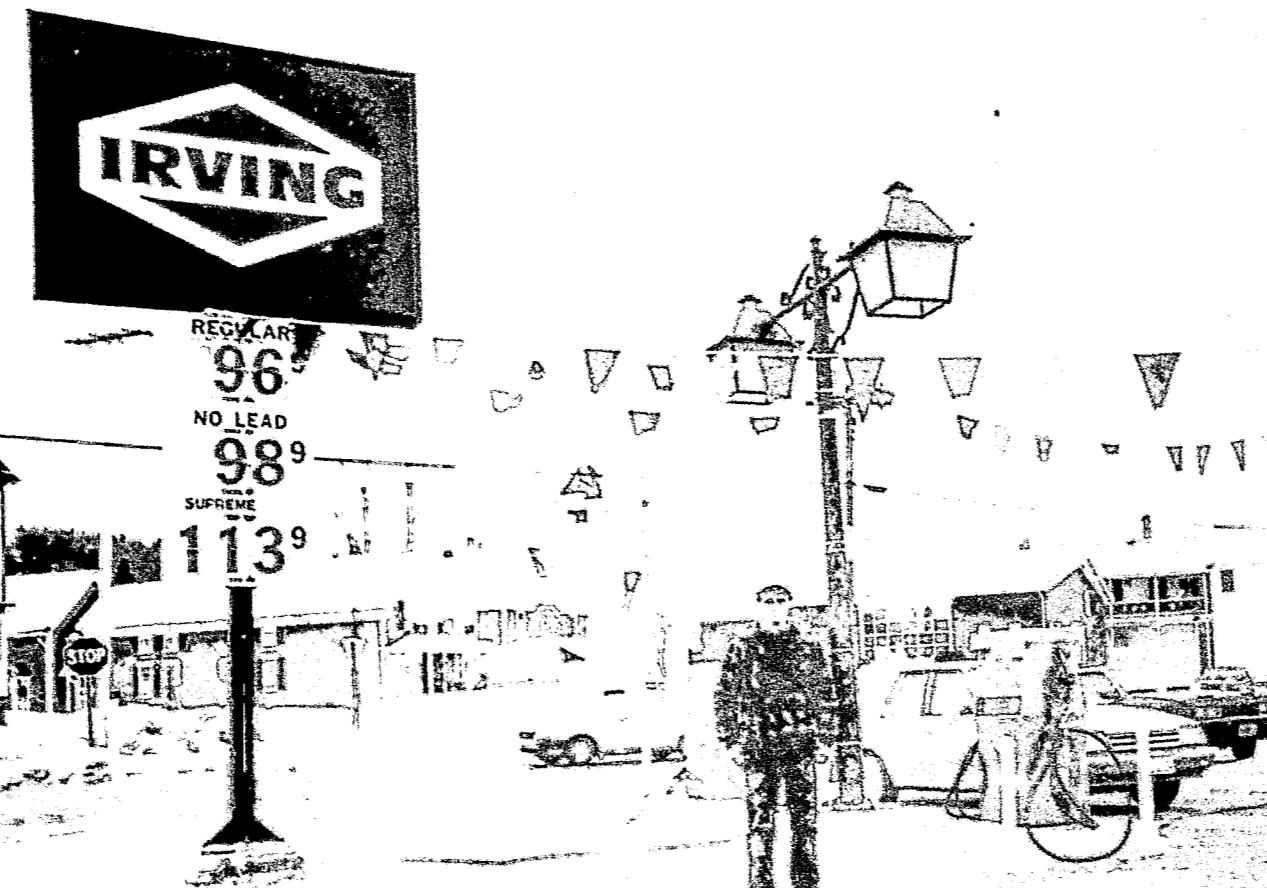

Another Guidance service occurring this month is weekly meetings of the Freshmen Awareness Committee. Order to participate for the Jan. 25 FACT (Family workshop). Freshmen students will be released from classes that day from 8 to 11:30 a.m. in order to participate in a full schedule of special activities at the Bethel Conference Center. Highlights of this morning program include: short and long-term goals—directions (academic, career, social); communication skills (talking and relating with peers, family members), extracurricular activities (there is more to school than sitting in a seat from 8 to 2), and a special presentation on self-esteem by Bill Wood.

Mr. Hart has been in the process of forming a Crisis Intervention Team (C.I.T.). Its role is to meet, assess and facilitate ways in which to deal with a crisis (death/tragedy) involving students and/or staff. The composition of the C.I.T. will include a school administrator, guidance counselor, faculty member, mental health counselor, clergy member and law enforcement representative. The C.I.T. will network a variety of services throughout the crisis, i.e. law enforcement procedures, consultation of staff/faculty, communication with appropriate community members, individual and group counseling. A major benefit of such a group is to assist both the school and local public safety agencies in allaying fear and gossip, by investigating facts and letting others know the facts. The members of the high school C.I.T. are: Richard McCann (teacher and former deputy of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department), Charles Taylor (teacher and deputy of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department), Rick Osgood (Bethel police officer), Carroll Higgins (Telstar H.S. assistant principal), Dan Hart (Telstar H.S. guidance counselor), Becky Hardy (Telstar H.S. Market Health), Jean and Jim Ross (Bethel Art Clerks). The next meeting of the C.I.T. will be Tuesday, Jan. 24, at 2:30 p.m., in the Telstar Guidance conference room.

Preliminary meetings of the Career Week Committee have begun. Mr. McCann, Mr. Abbott, Mrs. Dombrowski, Mrs. Arsenault, Mrs. Munn and Mr. Hart are in the process of planning and preparing the schedule and written materials for the Career Week. This year's program is scheduled for the week of Feb. 13-17. Career Week is a five-day job shadowing experience provided all juniors and seniors at Telstar.

The Guidance Office wishes to extend congratulations to four seniors on their recent post-graduate acceptances: Jeff Lyon and James Merrill, Unity College (Conservation Law); Brad Remington, Castleton State College (Physical Education); Rick Roy, United States Air Force (Administration).

Upcoming dates students and parents should mark: Jan. 19-20, mid-year exams; Jan. 30-31, D.A.T. testing for all sophomores; Feb. 1, open house—rank cards available; Feb. 8, annual career fair at Rumford High School, for sophomores and juniors; Feb. 20-24, winter vacation.

THE IRVING GAS STATION, in Bethel, is under new management. The new lease holder is Dwayne R. Bennett, Bryant Pond. The station does all types of repairs, as well as pumping gasoline.

Actors present drama on life in El Salvador at Gould, Jan. 12, 7:30

Gould and Stearns, a two-man theater company from Vermont, will perform "A Peasant of El Salvador" in Bethel High on Thursday, Jan. 12, 7:30 p.m. The fourth of the 1988-89 Gould Evening Program Series, the performance is free and the public is invited to attend.

"A Peasant of El Salvador" is the human, tender story of an aging hill farmer, his wife and five children who are trying to maintain the life they have always known. Rooted in land, faith and family, their struggle stands out against a backdrop of sweeping social and political change.

Most of the material in this original, 80-minute drama is factual and documented, woven from actual events in El Salvador and presenting information that is applicable to much of Latin America. The 16 individual characters created by the two actors are composite figures.

The play has received standing ovations in 37 states across the country and in London since it was first presented in 1983. Pete Seeger called it "magnificent and moving." "New Age Magazine" said, "Traveling two-man dramatic presentations like 'A Peasant of El Salvador' are rare."

In the play, "excellent and timely," another reviewer wrote, "It has the genuine eloquence of a folk tale, the simple beauty of a folk song and the impact of a bulldozer."

The play incorporates short speeches in Spanish, most of which are paraphrased or summarized in English as well. The actors will be available at the close of the

Tri-Town Rescue

Tri-Town Rescue needs your help. At a special general membership meeting last week, the members voted unanimously to purchase a new ambulance (Pioneer Yankee Coach) for $46,800. The new ambulance should arrive sometime next week.

The members are most excited about the additional space in the new unit. Tri-Town has two ambulances, both van styles. The 1979 ambulance that was purchased in 1983 will be replaced by the 1989 ambulance. The new ambulance is a modular one, providing additional space for equipment storage and patient transfer. Several times the ambulance transfers two patients at one time. This unit will provide much more space for the care of these two patients.

In addition the modular provides several compartments on the outside for equipment used at car accidents or easy access from the outside. Currently much of the splinting equipment is stored under the squad bench, prohibiting access with more than one patient.

Over the last several years the auxiliary has raised money for this purchase, saving thousands in its dedicated account. To date, the service has a total of $30,000 in this account, leaving a balance of $16,800 for the new ambulance. Tri-Town is seeking donations from members of the community to lower the amount needed to borrow for the purchase. Donations may be made to Tri-Town Rescue, P.O. Box 275, West Paris, Maine 04285.

Tri-Town Rescue has served the West Paris, Woodstock, Summer and Greenwood towns since 1981. The service is subsidized by each town on a per capita basis, which helps to cover the operating costs. This year the amount requested by each town is $6 per capita. Tri-Town offers free emergency service for all tax-payers and residents of the towns. Non-residents needing the service get a bill.

Also Tri-Town sends out for routine transfers, pre-arranged doctor visits. Individuals with insurance coverage may request a bill. From the beginning Tri-Town Rescue has wanted the service to be available to the townspeople regardless of their ability to pay.

The auxiliary has worked hard over

JOB OPENINGS LISTED

The following are job openings in the Bethel area:

Ski instructor, waiter/waitress, 1st cook, lifeguard, janitor, machinist, assembler (garment), snow maker, off-prep and line cooks, short order cook, ski patroller, logger, sawmill worker, general laborer, general office clerk, laborer (pulp and paper).

For more information on these and other job openings, contact the Maine Job Service office, at 35 Congress St., Rumford, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. request a bill. From the beginning Tri-Town Rescue has wanted the service to be available to the townspeople regardless of their ability to pay.

The auxiliary has worked hard over the last seven years to raise money for a new barn and two ambulances purchases. They offer suppers, raffles, variety shows, dances and craft sales, in addition to a yearly evergreen tree sales. Tri-Town Rescue is able to purchase the new ambulance primarily with the dedication of the strong auxiliary.

The ambulance personnel staff the ambulance on a 24-hour basis during days and evenings and during the holidays. This service is taken for granted as all the nearby squads offer this kind of coverage. Some squads need to be paid $1000 for some of the services. Tri-Town Rescue is able to continue staffing the service with volunteers. The service is always looking for additional members. An advanced first aid course is starting the first of February with Oxford Hills Adult Education. For more information contact that office in South Paris.

The third branch of the service is Tri-Town Search and Rescue, which responds with the game warden service to help find missing persons in the county and in the state. Search and rescue would like to convert the used ambulance into a response vehicle and mobile command station. The unit would also carry extra extrication equipment needed in auto accidents.

THE OXFORD COUNTY CITIZEN, BETHEL, MAINE

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENS

We are back and in full swing. Some had a great vacation and others were not pleased as the chicken pox has been around. Bradley Atkins, a kindergarten student, has been quite sick with chicken pox and we are all looking for him to get well soon!

The 1st Grade is welcoming a new student, Charity Weisz. Charity joins the class in time for a health and science unit on How our Bodies Grow. They are learning about how our bodies rest, eating from all the food groups, drinking plenty of water, and exercise.

The 2nd Grade student-of-the-week is Max Tizander. The past two weeks found both artists-of-the-week to be 5th graders. Congratulations to Renee Pratt and Katie Walton.

The 3rd-graders are studying town histories, concentrating on how communities change. They are using timelines and maps. They are particularly interested in West Paris. They are also making a life-line about their own personal histories.

The 4th-graders have begun studying division. They are learning the facts and they are learning how to do division problems.

The 5th-graders are working on two book reports. We enjoyed our small discussion groups in December so much that we have decided to continue them. Books should be read and ready to be discussed by next week. In the meantime, each student is bringing in a favorite book from early childhood to read to the class. The purpose of this exercise is to teach the importance of early reading and to show that even "baby" books are fun and educational.

The 6th-graders wrote thank-you notes to Jeff and Debbie Sandler, Mr. and Mrs. Fish to express how much they enjoyed their program. Mr. and Mrs. Fish wrote back to express their appreciation of the West Paris students and they sent an autographed picture.

Both the 5th and 6th grades have begun a new math unit, metric measurement. We are learning to estimate using the basic unit of measurement, the meter, and we are measuring lengths exactly to the nearest millimeter.

Our home/school counselor, Mr. Grigsby, has begun working with some new groups. Some 5th- and 6th-graders are meeting in a group addressing Dealing with Feelings. Two groups are meeting to address Separation and Divorce. One is for 1st- and 2nd-graders and the other for 3rd- and 4th-graders. Mr. Grigsby is also continuing his CAP support group, which works toward the same goals as the classroom CAP program, drug and alcohol abuse prevention.

Grades close Jan. 20, and the tank car will be sent home approximately a week later. The year is living by!

The Oxford Hills Boosters are sponsoring a basketball program for 5th- and 6th-grade boys and the West Paris Bobcats will be playing their first game on Saturday morning at the high school. Their opponents will be a team from Norway.

The West Paris Bobcats are: Kevin Mullins, Kevin Hutchins, Jon Haas,

NEWS FROM

Andover Elementary School

The 1st-grade classroom looks very different now. We have re-arranged and now we have more room. A big thank you to Mrs. Robinson, Art, and the Maintenance department for all their help.

The 2nd-graders have two new pets in their room—Flipper and Silver. They are goldfish that are Christmas gifts from Mrs. Meisner to the class.

Students are almost finished with their whole unit. We are writing a book about whales, sending out information on adoption, a whale, and making up a trivia contest for the school.

On Monday, Jim Chandler, environmentalist, spoke to the 3rd-grade class about birds. We are planning to feed the birds throughout the winter. If anyone would like to donate seeds, onion bags, suet, peanuts, etc., it would be appreciated.

The 3rd and 4th-graders are learning more about color in speech and classes taught by some of our classmates. These include Kelly Jaramillo, Joey Arvalos, Megan Meisner, Angela Percival, and Darcy Morse are teaching the others to mix and use color in new and exciting ways.

We have started working on our project theme of "Dinosaurs." Our room is filled with all types of dinosaurs and prehistoric creatures. We have many activities that we are doing at the six different learning centers. Each student has become a member of the Dinosaur Reading Club and is keeping a Dino Journal. We will also be tracking the dinosaur findings by continents through the Cretaceous, Jurassic, and Triassic periods. Each time we do our research, we chart where dinosaur bones were found all over the world.

Enrollments doing well for Adult Ed courses

The SAD 44 Adult and Community Education office is experiencing excellent enrollments for the Cabin Fever Releaser course and workshops set to begin Jan. 17.

According to Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell, perennial favorites like Carving and Introduction to Computers lead the field again this term with the most enrollments, closely followed by New England Birds of Winter. Designing with Perennials and Seed Starting are also popular. The office has also received registrations for Refresher Math and Algebra from individuals who are preparing to enroll in post-secondary programs next fall and who need to improve their math skills prior to enrollment.

To enroll in any of the more than 40 Cabin Fever courses or in Adult High School continuation programs, call the SAD 44 Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays, and on Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday evenings.

Andover East Andover

By HELEN SALWY

Mother Nature fulfilled lifelong dreams of a white Christmas for Wyne and Mayumi Otsuka, of Tokyo, Japan, who with Hideo Otsuka were guests of Rob Roy, East Andover Road, for four days.

Mr. Otsuka worked on a 1983 Comsat project in Andover for several months and is currently based in Washington, D.C., until mid-January.

While here, the Otsukas enjoyed visits with many Hanover and Rumford friends—Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fifield of MCI, and trips to MCI, Recovery Pond, Sunapee, and Conway, Bethel Gemshop, Gorham, N.H., and Richardson's General Store.

Glenna Roberts will not be leaving for Florida as Colby is in the hospital. He is doing fine so far.

CHAPMAN WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Sarah Chapman, daughter of Louise Chapman, of Andover, and the late Alan Chapman, of Bethel, has been awarded the Kevin McCann and Lindsay Scholarships from New England College. These scholarships recognize not only financial need, but academic achievement as well.

Sarah, who recently spent the fall semester of her sophomore year at New England College, in Andover, Sussex, England, will return to the U.S. in the spring. She will be returning to her studies on Jan. 20 at the American campus in Heniker, N.H., where she will continue with her studies as an English major.
